1. Let X := initial config
2. Let E := Eval(X)
3. Let i = random move from the moveset
4. Let E_i := Eval(move(X,i))
5. If E < E_i then
   X := move(X,i)
   E := E_i
   Else with some probability, accept the move even though things get worse:
   X := move(X,i)
   E := E_i
6. Goto 3 unless bored.

This may make the search fall out of mediocre local minima and into better local maxima.

How should we choose the probability of accepting a worsening move?

- Idea One. Probability = 0.1
- Idea Two. Probability decreases with time
- Idea Three. Probability decreases with time, and also as E – E_i increases.
